OLD MCGILL HAS its annual sales campaign this week, and the girls in the picture are engrossed in last year's edition. Old McGill contains pictures of all graduates as well as a review of the year in pictures. Annuals may be obtained from salesgirls on campus until Friday.

Government Puts Restriction On Travelling Red Officials

The Canadian Government is imposing travel restrictions on Russian diplomats in Ottawa.

These restrictions have resulted in the cancellation of a talk to have been held at Sir George Williams College on Oct. 25 by Mr. Krassilnikov, Third Secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. He had been invited by the Asian Studies Group to speak on "The Education System in the Soviet Union." Forced to cancel his talk, he explained that his travel permit had been withdrawn by the Canadian Government.

A high official of the External Affairs Department confirmed

these restrictions. "We must do this," he declared, "as long as Western diplomats in Moscow are restricted from travelling in the Soviet Union."

"We have found in the past that imposing of restrictions on Russian diplomats in Canada leads to an easing of travel restrictions on our officials in Moscow."

"We are supposed to notify the Canadian Government 48 hours in advance for permission to leave Ottawa," said Mr. Tavetkov. "When Mr. Krassilnikov and I asked for our travel permits, we were told that they had been withdrawn."

Resolution Requests Lifting Of Ban Against Editors

Special to the Daily

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 — The Student Federation of the University of Ottawa tonight unanimously passed a resolution requesting that the University authorities lift the ban that had been pronounced against the three editors of La Rotonde.

In a special meeting called by Federation President Marcel Prud'homme, the 14 member council and 25 non-voting members approved the resolution with little discussion.

The request will be sent to the Dean of Students, Rev. Leonard Ducharme who forbade the three editors of the newspaper from taking part in publishing activities.

The meeting also unanimously approved another resolution which condemned the actions recently of Mr. Bill Boss, Director of Public Relations of the University of Ottawa.

The resolution which said it "strongly deplores Mr. Bill Boss's interference by offering to the Press estimates of the opinion of the student body with regard to the current Rotonde issue" was aimed at a statement made by Mr. Boss last Thursday. He had stated that the large majority of students would agree that their rights have in no way been infringed by the prohibition placed upon the three editors.

This second resolution, according to Prud'homme, would also be forwarded to the University authorities.

Mr. Boss is also reported to have accused the newspaper with the use of childish tactics and to have reproached the News Editor of La Rotonde, Jean Carrière, for failing to assume the editorship of the newspaper when the three editors were removed from their posts. No mention was made of these points in the resolution.

Tonight's meeting was the latest development in the issue that involves Student Press rights which may be in opposition to administrative discipline.

The editors were removed from their positions following the publication of the October 3 edition of La Rotonde. In that day's issue, a charge of "Religious Paternalism" was leveled against the University authorities.

La Rotonde has not published since last month's incident. It is a bi-monthly French-language newspaper.

Father Ducharme, when asked to comment on tonight's move by the Student Federation, was reluctant to make any statement and referred reporters to Mr. Boss who said: "I have no doubt

Protest Firing Of Editors

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — The Canadian University Press has officially protested the firing of the three student editors of the University of Ottawa newspaper, La Rotonde.

According to Toronto sources there is no indication of any possible reversal of the administration's decision although the editors are at present receiving support from the University of Ottawa Students' Federation.

The Daily learned tonight in an exclusive interview with CUP President John Gray, that he felt that this action by the University of Ottawa was a direct attack on the freedom of the press.

Mandated to speak on behalf of CUP, he charged that the move was a denial of one of the bases of university education, that is, freedom of expression. Univ.

Canada - US Relations Is Topic At Second MCWA

The second McGill Conference on World Affairs is to be held next week from Wednesday to Friday. At the first Conference held last year, student delegates from 26 Canadian Universities met in round table discussion groups.

This year's topic will be Canadian-United States Relations; students from several American universities have been invited to attend in order that the American view may be expressed and form part of the discussion of the delegates.

Professor McInnis, President of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs will open the conference with an address giving a comprehensive introduction to the subject. He will deal in general with all aspects of Canadian-U.S. relations and will stress specifically the Canadian point of view.

DISCUSSION GROUPS

Round table discussion groups will be held on Thursday and Friday to consider the subject in its political, economic, military, and cultural aspects.

A panel discussion by four authorities on a particular aspect of Canadian-U.S. relations will take place on the evening of Thursday, November 13. Chaired by J.R. Mallory, Associate Professor of Economics and Political Science at McGill, the panel will be composed of Raymond Daniell, Ottawa correspondent for the New York Times; Gilbert Jackson, Toronto economist; Major W.H.S. Macklin, Canadian army, retired; and Professor Mason Wade, Director of Canadian studies at the University of Rochester.

CLOSING BANQUET

On the evening of Friday, November 14, there will be a banquet for the delegates, and the Honourable Frank M. Coffin, a member of Congress of the United States, will deliver the closing address. He will speak on sources of friction and misunderstanding between Canada and the United States from the American point of view.

The conference will be concluded at a final plenary session on Saturday with reports from the chairmen of the round table discussion groups on the conclusions reached during the two days of the conference.

STIMULATE THINKING

The purpose of the conference is to stimulate the thinking of the delegates in the field of international affairs in general and to enable them to develop a clearer understanding of the relations between Canada and the United States.

Tickets for the opening address and the first panel discussion are available at the office of the McGill Conference on World Affairs in the Union. Tickets will not be necessary for the second panel discussion or for the reports of the round table discussion groups.

This Morning's Headlines News of National and World Significance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — The American people voted in moderately heavy numbers today to elect a new Congress. They chose between the opposition party Democrats, who have held the congressional majority since 1954, and the Republicans, who command the White House because of President Eisenhower's election victory in 1956. All pre-election surveys pointed to another Democratic victory.

LONDON, Nov. 4 — A woman tonight participated in a House of Lords debate for the first time in its 900-year history. She was Baroness Elliott of Harwood, one of four women who last month broke the ancient all-male tradition of the Upper Chamber by taking seats there as life peeresses.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 — Trucking operators announced tonight that they had worked out a formula that will avert a teamsters' strike in the Montreal area.

Not By Science Alone

What Canada needs today even more than scientists and technicians is men of wisdom and vision. It urgently needs men with the clear and full view, men who understand what is happening in the world and are not continually being taken by surprise by living history and the effects of recognizable causes. It needs men who know something about the science of world organization and the kind of structure that is required to support a lasting peace. It needs men who can cope with Communism in terms of a hard, working knowledge of what it actually is rather than what they find it convenient to think it is. Most of all, it needs men who are not afraid to bet their public careers on big ideas and who are as much concerned about the safety and rights of the next generation as they are about their own.

Our scientists by themselves cannot give us security. The devices and weapons they can create may help to restore the national ego but they are not enough to create a functioning peace. The only justifiable purpose of such devices is to strengthen the circumstances under which we can press forward with a great idea that can do away with the devices.

For our security depends on many things. It depends on what the Western powers mean to the vast majority of the world's peoples — whether other people have a real sense of identification with us or whether they regard us as prosperous freaks who have nothing important to say or do in the making of a saner tomorrow. It depends on the nature of our ideas for peace — on how much we are willing to give of ourselves in making those ideas come to life.

Like little boys boasting and taunting and edging closer to each other with firecrackers, the large nations are moving steadily from claims of strength to ultimatums.

What is most startling of all is that some people seem to take comfort from this fact, claiming that war is now so horrible that no one will dare to carry out the ultimatums. As Bertrand Russell remarked in a television broadcast recently, views like these are in themselves a species of insanity. They ignore history. They assume that the same shortsightedness that produced the present crisis is all that is necessary to surmount it. They assume also that mistakes can become even larger without exacting a price at some point, that action is without consequence, and that there exists somewhere a magical safety valve which, unseen and undefined, will spring into being and safeguard the future of man. This is the stuff of fantasy, readily observable at institutions for the treatment of schizophrenics but never more out of place in a serious consideration of the means by which a design for survival can be created for human life on earth.

If peace is to be made, something more powerful than nuclear explosives will have to make it. The peace will have to be made by a leadership that understands the difference between the means of peace and the means of war. Peace has its own properties and structural requirements. The fact that other countries may resist such an approach to peace should not mean that we must abandon the approach. The leaders of a community who are concerned with the need to build a hospital for that community do not abandon their plans to build that hospital because some powerful people are against it. They proceed rather to carry the issue to the community as a whole, confident that a full debate will generate the required support.

Our job is to help create a great debate in the world. Once we define the need for a pooling of sovereignty in the creation of a design of world law-adequate to provide a basis for justice in settling the disputes among nations, adequate to prevent aggression, and stop the nuclear arms race — once we do this, we create a stage for the long-overdue great debate that the age requires. Such a debate may not automatically dispose of war or Communism or any of the other insistent problems in the world, but at least it can enable us to focus on our real problems.

In the meanwhile, our universities can serve the nation best not only by giving increased attention to the need for scientific knowledge but to the need for knowledge about the world itself. Education for Western civilization is not enough; beyond Europe lies the preponderance of the world's peoples. Who they are, what they believe, and what they want — rather than what the Russians alone or the Americans alone say they want — could determine the outcome of the great debate.

No Spirit?

To the Editor:

It has always been my ambition to come to McGill and to participate in the famed campus spirit which is generally synonymous with University life. I am now in my third year here and, I regret to say, only part of my ambition has been realized... I am still searching for some echo of college fellowship — something which I can remember and associate with McGill long after I have forgotten Newton's Laws of Motion and the Ginkgo Tree.

There seems to be no common spirit of determination and dedication throughout the campus, no sense of pride and contribution of time and talents to the college as a whole. Our football team and Redman band lack the polish and wholehearted drive so prevalent in visiting Universities. For the benefit of those which might have forgotten, there is a blood drive going on now. Of the 8,000 students enrolled, no more than 2,500 will give a pint — surely jaundice is not that contagious! A certain université on the Island had a brass band playing piper to their students, leading them from classroom and corridor to their blood drive clinic, netting some 3,000 pints. Another example is the plight of the freshman. During his first week, he is welcomed and given special attention. This action decisively stops when the upperclassmen return (with the possible exception of that faculty which makes its frosh stand trial). Bingo! all the freshmen are grabbed and all that the poor freshman is left to face is 16 English books and a compulsory Athletics program.

Perhaps fraternities have developed the closest thing to "college spirit". This brings up my final point; do fraternities divert potential creators and leaders of campus atmosphere OR does the student, realizing the lack of fellowship on the campus, join one of these "off-campus" organizations as an effort to satisfy his longing for belonging?

Student News From Around The World

COLLEGE GIRLS IN AGRA have been ordered not to wear anything that might prove too alluring to male students. Educational authorities have handed down a list of tabooed items including nylon saris, tight fitting brassieres, lipstick and rouge. The order was issued after a girl in tight fitting brassiere nylon sari "disrupted" a class.

QUEBEC STUDENTS are not alone in striking in protest against high tuition fees. A 10-day general strike by Calcutta college students over an increase in tuition was suspended recently as a result of intervention by the Vice-Chancellor of Calcutta University. He announced that increased fees would not be demanded since the State Government had provided the money required by the colleges. All students arrested in connection with the students' agitation were released from jail.

A UNIVERSITY OF ATHEISM has opened in Ashkhabad to further the spread of "scientific-atheistic knowledge". The university is offering a six-month course of 60 lectures on godlessness. Graduates from the university will be expected to continue the anti-religious campaign which has been going on in Russia since the 1917 Revolution, a campaign which has scored significant achievements, but which has not extinguished all Russia's belief in a supreme being.

INCREASING STUDENT MARRIAGES have prompted the University of Brussels to establish a kindergarten where studying parents can leave their children from 7am-7pm. The kindergarten is close to the University and is expected to take from 30-40 children.

IF YOU WERE a student in Bulgaria, chances are 50-50 that you would be receiving a government scholarship. Scholarship students must agree to work at a government-designated job for three years following graduation.

CUBAN UNIVERSITIES face the loss of federal grants if they do not reopen their doors which have been closed during the past two years. The Universities of Havana, Oriente and Las Villas decided not to resume studies until a minimum of guarantees and security for students and professors was obtained. This is a violation of university autonomy as the state grants are referred to in the National Constitution of Cuba.

AN EAST GERMAN COURT has sentenced 18 students and young workers to a total of 54 years of imprisonment. The Communist justice charged them with having committed treason because they expressed their views of the structure of a reunited Germany in a private ten-point programme. The sentence raised a storm of indignation throughout West Germany. Student Councils at many universities in the Federal Republic and West Berlin adopted protest resolutions and petitioned the East German authorities for a revision of the sentences.

POLAND HAS DRAFTED a new scholarship law. Past experience has shown that for some students, scholarships merely provided extra pocket money, while guaranteeing a minimum existence to others. For this reason scholarships will in the future be taken away from better situated students and will only be given to those for whom they are the sole source of income. In accordance with the new order, which will go into effect on January 1, only about 60% of all Polish students will receive scholarships (until now there were more than 70%).

VIENNESE COLLEGES and universities are being flooded with new applicants. A 10-20% increase over the 1957-58 winter semester is expected. Reasons for the increased influx of students are to be found in the fact that the youth born in 1939 and 1940, years of heavy birth rate, have reached college age. There is also an evergrowing tendency among Austrians to turn to the academic professions.

Engineers Back Amendment To Two Year Plan

Graduating engineers voted in favor of a proposed amendment to the Professional Engineering Act last Friday in the Physical Sciences Center Auditorium.

The assembly was to resolve whether or not a two year's training plan for new members of the Corporation of Professional Engineers of Quebec will be beneficial. Present at the meeting were Mr. Peter Bournival, General Secretary of the Corporation of Professional Engineers, Dean D. L. Mordell, Dean of the Engineering Faculty, and Mr. W. J. Riley who is the vice president of the Corporation and a McGill Graduate.

The Corporation of Professional Engineers of Quebec is an organization to which all practicing professional engineers of the Province of Quebec must belong to under the civic code. The Corporation was founded for the welfare of engineers in 1920. Shortly afterwards a governmental act was passed restricting all engineers to join the Corporation in order to practice lawfully in the Province of Quebec. One of the provisions of the Act is that all graduates of the engineering faculty of McGill University, will automatically become members of the Corporation.

A short opening speech was given by Dean Mordell. In encouraging his listeners to take a favorable attitude towards the proposed amendment, he said, "I, as Dean of this faculty, am not interested in training engineers, but my interest is to educate you so that you will, by diligence and hard work, find your own way." He also mentioned that young doctors must have two years of internship and why, in view that engineering is a profession, should a similar internship not be beneficial to set young engineers on the proper road to success.

Literary Contest Held By Daily For All Students

The Daily will once again be holding its annual Literary Contest, it was announced last week.

The contest features sections for both poetry and prose fiction and is limited to McGill students. A cash prize will be awarded the winner in each section and certificates worth $7.50 at the University Book Store will be given as second prizes. Winning entries will be published in the Daily's special Christmas issue of December 12.

Last year's winners were James Stuart and Bernard Schiff in the prose section, and Deborah Eibel and Jack Antell in poetry. The judges were members of the English Department.

Because of mid-term exams coming before Christmas this year, the deadline for entries has been advanced to November 28.

A summary of the contest rules follows:

1. Only McGill Students are eligible.
2. All entries must be typewritten and double-spaced.
3. Any student may submit as many entries as he wishes, but he may not win more than one prize in any section.
4. Entries in the prose fiction section shall not be more than 1500 words.
5. All entries should be placed in plain envelopes addressed to "Literary Contest, McGill Daily" and left with George at the Tuckshop before 4 pm., November 28.
6. Any works previously published are not eligible.
7. All entries become the property of the McGill Daily.
8. Winning entries will be published in the Christmas issue of the McGill Daily.

Gray Attacks Move

University journalism should not be hampered by political restriction, said Gray.

He mentioned that many Canadian University papers have published editorials on the matter; all of these have condemned the action. As La Rotonde is a member paper of CUP, "we are all in this together." He felt that the matter was "of vital interest to all of us" and the action of condemnation was therefore necessary.

Provincial Socialist Leader To Address McGill Society

Labour conditions in Quebec will get an airing this afternoon at McGill. Mr. Michel Chartrand, head of the C. C. F. Party in this province, will speak on "Labour Conditions In Quebec" at 1 pm today in the Walter M. Stewart room.

During the Murdochville crises, Mr. Chartrand was lent by his union to the Steel Workers' Union, where he witnessed the Provincial Police in action. He has been imprisoned five times for anti-Union Nationale activities.

J.V. Druten Plays Are Cancelled

The Players Club has decided, owing to casting difficulties, not to run the two plays which they had chosen earlier in the year: "Bell, Book and Candle" and "There's Always Juliet", by American playwright James Van Druten.

Instead of these two comedies, they are producing "Murder in the Cathedral", one of T.S. Eliot's earlier plays set in the 12th century. Auditions will begin tonight at 8 pm in the Union.

Mr. Chartrand believes that justice in a society means disorder, and disorder is caused by conflicting interests of employers and workers.

INTERCOLLEGIATE VOLLEYBALL

In order to play on the Intercollegiate Volleyball team girls must come out to the practices held immediately after the intramural games on Wednesday evenings at the Girls High School on University Avenue. Coach Helleur will be on hand to teach new techniques due to rule changes this year.

BOWLING

The Intramural Bowling Tournament will take place between November 10 and 21, where a team of two girls will play 2 strings of five-pins. An intercollegiate team will be chosen from the high scorers of the meet. Sign up on the RVC notice board before November 10 with a partner and after completing your two strings, please bring in the recorded scores to Tony Newman, Bowling president. The WAA will reimburse all bowlers the cost of the first string; remaining strings will be paid for by the participant.

McGill Poloists Meet Central Y

The McGill water polo squad will play their game of the season tonight at 7:30 when they meet the highly touted Central YMCA at the McGill Pool. McGill have won one game and lost one, while the 'Y' has won their only encounter this year.

In the latter part of the week-night doubleheader, the winless Snowdon 'Y' play against the undefeated Snowdon 'Y'.

Heading the Central roster is Bernie Toporowski, former McGill Water Polo stalwart. Pentti Luomala, the team's top scorer so far this year, is again expected to carry the offensive punch for the Redmen.
